A War-Cloud.

The present French tyrant-the sham Napoleon, who just now rejoices in the style and title of " the Emperor"—is making warlike preparations on an extra and vigorou scale. The French army, which previously numbered little if any less than half a million of soldiers, has been reinforced by an additional levy of forty-two thousand men. The fortifications of the empire have been thoroughly repaired, strengthened, and connected by lines of railway; while the navy is to be speedily augmented by the addition of no less than forty war-ships and the im mense mass of seventy thousand sailors.

The commercial, financial, and all the leading industrial interests of Prance are greatly depressed. The tyrant sees or fears a storm in the distance, which, if not timely provided for, may upset his throne; and he evidently thinks a war in some direction af fords the most promising chance of saving himself and preserving his ill-gotten power. The French passion for military achievements is so easily excited and so all-absorbing, that the imperial radian has only to give it due scope and cocouragement, and he countingly deems that the sufferings and wrongs of the people will all be forgotten and extinguished in a blaze of glory.

But his financial resources are well nigh exhausted. Indeed, everything like ordinary, revenues, and tolerable taxation, and loans not absolutely ruinous, have been found wholly inadequate to meet the confinitly increasing burden of imperial extra ogance and a government edict was lately issued requiring the public sale of all the charitable establishments of the country-or, lather, of the real estate belonging to these stulilishments, -- whose estimated value is about two hundred millions of dollars. The ale was required to be made by the officer of the establishments in question, and the ploeceds to be invested in the government fund-A very ingenious and summary method replenishing an empty treasury, no doubtbut smacking rather too strongly of whole sale confiscation; and so general and radical was the public discontentia consequence of this decree, that many of the trustees of charitable institutions forthwith resigned and it was not quite certain that the act would be carried into effect.

he extensive military preparations in ance have caused no small degree of uniness in "merrie England." The Brit-1 copie ask themselves, as well they may nat is the meaning of all these formidable al evidently warlike arrangements? The urping Emperor was not altogether ased with the position of the British govmucht in regard to the Orsini conspiracy id the collateral question of giving shelter French and Italian refugees. And, more ecently, the capture of a French slave ship y a liritish cruiser on the coast of Africa is caused some difference of opinion, and erhaps rather more, between the two govinments. Finally, there is yet remaining e old Honopartean grudge ngainst the british, founded on the final capture and im riso ament of the first Napoleon on the land of St. Helena. Putting all these ngs together, the British press and peothink they have some reason to fear the ostile armament is meant for a ficree strugle with themselves. And England, taxed ceimated, and worried as she has been of te years, with Crimean and Indian wars it must be confessed, in rather a pool dian to invite aggression.

But it does not, as yet, seem quite certain about direction the sham Napoleon means turn his cannon. He is not on good cans life cordial friends-mul he can easily quarrel in any quarter. Time will on disclose his purposes.

LOCAL NEWS.

Coasters' Harbor Island, There is not a more delightful spot in the vicinity of Newport than the island indicated in the above caption; and it seems a pity that it should be kept for the purpose to which it is appropriated. Surrounded on three sides by deep water, and connecting with our own island with a substantial causeway of stone, it is easy of access on all sides. With high promontories, it commands a view of the surrounding country in every direction. Looking north, you have Narragansett Bay spread out before you, with its numerous sail of vessels, and Bristol in the distance. On the South you have Newport, its harbor, Forts Adams and Walcott, and the open sea beyond. East is Rhode Island, its teeming hills and varied landscape. West is the Narragansett shore with its rich farms and substantial farm houses.

At the Asylum on this island the thermometer seldom rises above 115 degrees in the shade; there is excellent fishing within a stone's throw of the island, and good facilities for bathing on its shores. We repeat, it is a pity that the place should be retained for its present use. With a slight degree of artificial adorument, it would be one of the most splendid sites for a hotel and watering place in New England, while some other locality would serve the purpose for which it is now used quite as well.

Yielding to the allurements of City Mar. shal Seatle, who seems kindly disposed to introduce us to all the lions of the city, we Monday afternion visited this island and inade the acquaintance of the worthy couple managing the institution, Mr. and Mrs James Simmors. The island comprises nmety-two neres of most excellent tillage land, eighty of which are in a high state of cultivation and productiveness, the work being done by the inmates of the institution. Oats, barley, grass, corn, potatues, onions, &c., &c., together with thriving live stock, are the productions of the is and. The causeway countring the two islands is nearly completed, and is composed enfirely of stone taken from ledges on the premises. It was built across a marsh where hard buttom could not be reached with a fourteen foot pole. All the labor on it was done by the inmates of the insti-But there is a darker picture to be view ed in this connection. As this is the asy lum for the infirm in body and mind with whose maintenance the community has beome chargeable, there is no lack of cases of this description from which to draw our ilus trations. In a ruom to which we were introduced, were several females afflicted with various forms of insanity. One, an old lady of 96 years, bent over with the infirtity of age, of whom all was gone save trail tenement of skin and bones, sat beating with her shrivelled hand on her and mumbling meaningless words.-Other sat in listless silence, with tangled and mitted locks, the vacant stare telling but to plainly that the light of reason had gone of . Some of these are afflicted with that decree of insanity making it necessary to confine them in cells, to prevent their doing injury to themselves and others. One aged mather with glaring eyes stood at the wicket and saluted us with horrid oaths and shocking of cenity as we passed through the corridor. One would hardly recognize in these misquble wrecks "the human form divine" that had once challenged the admiration of the ther sex. Strong drink has its victims herd too. We saw one who they told us had only been an industrious and thriving mechant in this town, but in whom the light of reaso was forever extinguished.

Though sadly at of repair, the institution bears evident marks of thailt and good management. This rooms were next and cleanly, and everything wore an orderly appearance. The talk of disciplining these erratic minds is by no means as enviable one, yet we learn that it has been admirawith Austria-the Swiss are by no bly achieved by Mr. Simmon; atl his exd that the poor unfuturates. comprising their charge are ruled by kindness rather than furze, which latters only

To say a word in favor of the Per-Ty, or her sterling Clerk Charley Stanhope, would be superfluous, as both have joined a terratation as wide as the fame of Newport has extended.

> The two story building corner Thames and Scott's wharf, known as the Lyon estate, is being disemboweled, preparatory to a thorough refitting inside. A new front is also taking the place of the old to have shot a buffalo, near one, and will add very much to the appearance and value of the estate.

SHOPLIFTER ARRESTED. -A fellow calling himself John Jones, alias John Brown, alize John Luck, &c., was seen by Marshal Seatle yesterday morning, to sell a ham, worth about $2,50, for 50 cents. Thinking that no honest man could afford to sell hams at that price, the Marshal took him in charge. It proved, on investigation, that the fellow stole the ham from the store of II. H. Young, Parade corner. The thief was committed to jail, and Mr. Young "sayed his bacon. 'The same chap had been to other stores inquiring the price of articles, representing himself as servant in a private family, taking the numbers, &c. He is undoubtedly connected with an organized gang of thieves quartered in our midst.

A Suggestion.—As bathing is highly conducive to health and recreation, we would suggest a way in which it might be continued at our wherves at any time without offence to decency. This is to wear a pair of thin pantaloons or their equivalent while in the water. It is not our desire to deprive the youth of our city of the privilege of bathing, but merely to have it condusted with decency.

REGULAR SUMMER BOAT TO BLOCK ISL AND. -The staunch sea-going yacht schooner William Newton, has commenced her regular semi-weekly trips between Newport and Block Island, leaving here on Tuesdays and Fridays. To those wishing to visit this sea-girt isle, the above will afford an excellent opportunity. We intend to make the trip ourself, publishing on our return a "history" of our "explorations."

It is So !- We find some who are discosed to question our acticle yesterday in relation to the well on Coasters' Harbor Island. For verification of our statement we refer them to Mr. Simmons, keeper of the Asylum. It is, however, susceptible of explanation. Though the water rises and falls regularly with the tide, it is not to be supposed that the salt water really flows into the well; but the matter to be accounted for is the action of the tide upon this well without in the least changing the quality of the water.

BEAUTIFUL .- The magnificent Micror of Italy opened yesterday. Several hundred children were present in the offereoon and a crowded house in the evening. It certainly may be called the best exhibition in the country," We have never seen an audience so well pleased. It more than meets our expectations. It is to be on exhibition every evening this week as well as next Monday, when two exhibitions are to be given. For stall an exhibition the admission fee is certainly very low.

For Rocky Point Gentlemen who would like to pass the day, Monday, at Recky Point, with their families, will please confer with B. W. Pearce, at this office.-The design is to charter the WARREN Houseoup, the largest boat in our harbor, capable of carrying 25 to 60 persons without inconvenience, and leave here about 9 o'clock for Rucky Point, returning about 4. The terms will be reasonable.

Persons sending notices of marriages through the Post office to this paper, will please olserve three things-to write the names legibly, sign their own name and address, and Jay the postage. Otherwise they will not be inserted, as we must guard against imposition in such matters.

Those wishing to avail themselves of the licalthtul and invigorating exercise of rowing, can obtain a capital hoat for the purpose by applying to Samuel Carr, 5 Ferry Wharf. She is new, and buil, expressly for the purpose,

Dr One hundred and fidy persons landed here from the New York boat yesterday morning, with trunks and baggage sufficient to sink a small steamer of itself. People find there is no place like Newport during the "long, yellow days of summer."
